DEFENDERS GARDEN DECOYS

A WATCHFUL EYE

Protect more than just ponds with the wider range of decoys to help keep avian pests and nuisance animals away from buildings, vehicles, allotments and vulnerable garden areas including crops and seedlings.

DECOY TIPS

Target pests can become used to decoy deterrents especially if they are static. It's recommended to move or re-position decoys at least every 2-3 days after set-up until target pests are successfully deterred.
